Beauhurst expands to Germany: Powering business intelligence in Europe's largest economy

31st March 2025, Berlin—Beauhurst, the UK's leading platform for private company data and insights, today announced its expansion into Germany. This marks a key milestone in its European growth strategy, bringing Beauhurst's advanced data and analytics capabilities to one of the world's most dynamic business landscapes.

Germany, as Europe's largest economy, offers a unique combination of market stability, innovation, and global influence, making it a strategic destination for Beauhurst. The country boasts a thriving startup ecosystem, supported by strong government funding, an active venture capital landscape, and world-leading industries in technology, manufacturing, and life sciences. Additionally, Germany's vast network of Mittelstand companies—high-performing, often family-owned businesses—fuels significant demand for high-quality private company data to drive investment, corporate growth, and strategic decision-making.

Beauhurst's platform enables users to discover, track, and analyze private companies. Now expanding into Germany, it delivers detailed coverage of all 2.8 million active private companies in the country, providing in-depth data on sectors, funding rounds, investors, financials, news, leadership teams, transactions, and key business activities.

With this extensive depth and breadth of data, investors, financial and professional services firms and sales teams can efficiently navigate the German market and leverage key insights to:

Find partnerships and opportunities: Identify companies based on industry, size, growth stage, and location.

Monitor market trends: Track funding activity, sector growth, and competitor movements.

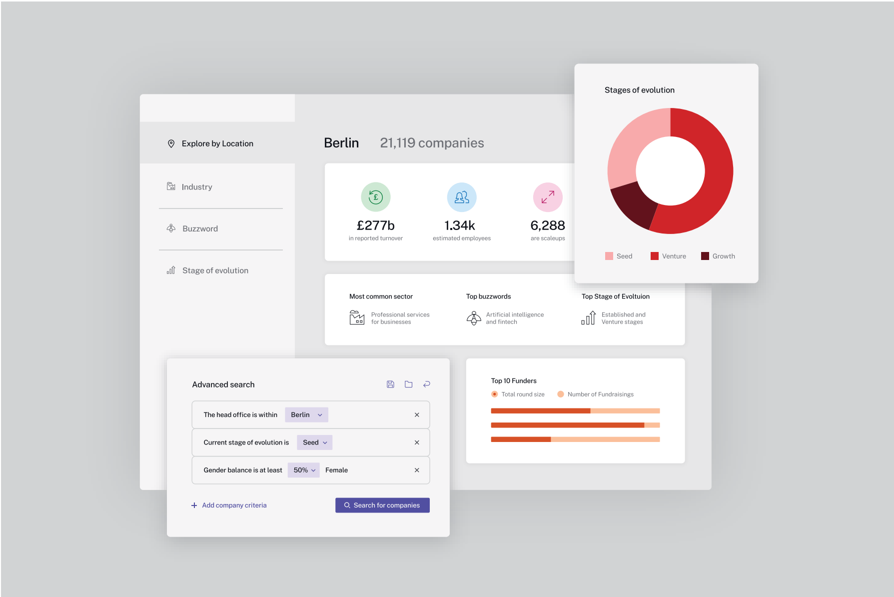
Conduct due diligence: Access financials, leadership details, and company performance data.

Connect with key players: Discover investors, founders, and industry experts within the German ecosystem.

Identify new markets: Assess business potential and partnership opportunities.

Stay ahead of innovation: Follow emerging technology and industry trends.

"We are incredibly excited to launch Beauhurst in Germany," said Toby Austin, CEO at Beauhurst. "Germany's strong economy and rich business landscape make it a natural next step for our expansion. We believe our platform will help organizations of all types gain deeper insights into the German company ecosystem, driving growth and fostering innovation."



In the UK, Beauhurst has established strong relationships with major accounting firms, banks, law firms, and government departments, reinforcing its reputation as a trusted data provider since 2010. Now, it brings the same powerful insights to Germany, offering tailored solutions for a wide range of industries, including:

BeauhurstAdvise: For financial and professional services to find prospects, manage client relationships, structure deals, and conduct due diligence.

BeauhurstInvest: For investors and accelerators aiming to identify and support high-growth companies.

BeauhurstImpact: For universities and government bodies focused on measuring and enhancing their impact.

BeauhurstSales: Empowering sales teams and recruiters in finding and engaging with potential clients and candidates.

To facilitate onboarding, Beauhurst is offering selected first-time clients the opportunity to experience the platform through a complimentary trial period.

As Beauhurst continues to grow, it remains committed to expanding its coverage and bringing high-quality data to other key markets, further supporting clients in their international endeavors. Beauhurst's entry into the German market is supported by a dedicated marketing and sales team focused on building local partnerships and engaging with key stakeholders.
